

I feel that the NAB is inappropriately using it's large lobbying power to stifle competition in the radio market. If XM wishes to broadcast local traffic and weather, it should be allowed to - the market should be allowed to dictate whether or not XM is successful in this offering, not a group trying to protect large corporations' pockets.

Going on what the NAB is saying, local radio stations should be restricted from rebroadcasting national and syndicated content, and they should only be allowed to broadcast it on XM - yet you don't see XM asking for the same free money.
